When the printer makes a mistake in the price of sugar, for instance, and quotes in a store's advertisement "ten pounds for 5 cents" when it should have read "ten pounds for 50 cents," the grocer finds out mighty quick that his advertisement is being read in the paper.

That's the way it was with our item yesterday about the golf course purchase. We published an erroneous report and we found out about it mighty quick.

Not only were Leo Burger, and M. T. Kelly quick to put us right on the matter, but some others whose names were not mentioned in the item also called the item to our attention and we're glad to know that so many of the golfers read the paper.

Without repeating the "boner," the golf course acreage of ninety-six acres was purchased by Perry Tracy, M. T. Kelly and Leo Burger, acting for and in behalf of themselves and twenty-four other individuals, which makes a total of twenty-seven individual owners of the golf course;—and it's still a golf course, one of the prettiest in the Mother Lode.

"Scuse, please."

MRS. ELIZABETH HARRIS' HOME IS DAMAGED IN WEDNESDAY FIRE

The roof and a portion of the upper floor of the two-story residence of Mrs. Elizabeth Harris, situated on top of the hill which is bounded on the east by Spring street and on the west by Canal street, were burned by fire of unknown origin about seven o'clock Wednesday evening. Loss was estimated at between $2,500 and $3,000.

According to firemen, the blaze apparently started in a clothes closet in one of the second floor rooms. Fire damage was done in that room and to the roof and there was, necessarily, some water damage.

Mrs. Harris told firemen she carried some insurance on her home and that she would plan reconditioning of the structure at an early date.

PARALYSIS IN LOS ANGELES

30 Cases Are Reported; Emergency Is Declared In Board Of Supervisors

LOS ANGELES, (UP)—Los Angeles county prepared today to use an emergency fund of $500,000 to combat an outbreak of 30 infantile paralysis cases within the last 10 days. On the recommendation of Superintendent Everett J. Gray of the county hospital, the county board of supervisors declared an epidemic existed which would justify using the fund which was set aside for emergency conditions.

Latency of the outbreak of the disease, which usually dies down during the winter months, was encouraging to officials, but the fact that the cases were widely scattered throughout the county led to fears of a more general outbreak.

In 1934-35 an epidemic affected 1420 persons, more than 300 of them employees of the hospital. Superintendent Gray issued a call for nurses and other hospital employees who have recovered from the disease and will now be immune while nursing the victims. He said a special isolation ward has been set up at the hospital.

AFL Delegation To Call On President To Ask Wage Restoration

WASHINGTON, (UP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor announced today that he will ask President Roosevelt tomorrow to restore prevailing wage rates for skilled relief workers.

Abandonment of the prevailing wage schedule and adoption of a security wage policy in paying relief labor has caused a widespread strike among WPA workers, involving upwards of 77,000. Of this number approximately 14,000 have been dismissed for failing to report to work.

Mr. Roosevelt has indicated that the new WPA policy, written into law by congress in the new relief act, had his support.

Green will head a committee which will call on the President. It was appointed at an emergency conference of all AFL union presidents here yesterday. Its visit to the White House will be the opening of a united labor front fight for restoring hourly wage rates in effect prior to July 1 on WPA projects.

ALCATRAZ ROUTINE GEARED TO HANDLE INCORRIGIBLES

Former Prisoner Suggests Separate Institution For Men Who Have Hopes Of Ultimate Release; Rufe Persful Called "Worst" Of 300 Inmates

By ROY GARDNER

Editor's Note: This is the second of four articles by Roy Gardner, one-time train robber, 18 years a convict, until a year ago a prisoner on the dreaded Alcatraz Island, now a lecturer on excursion boats from the Crowley dock in the Port of the Bay.

There are 300 prisoners on Alcatraz Island.

Half of them will some day be given their freedom. The others face death on the Rock.

All of them are subject to a brand of discipline necessary to control the worst of their number. That "worst man," in my opinion, is Rufe Persful, who is known to have killed six persons. And only Rufe Persful knows how many more. He's a killer as a weasel is a killer; he's a wanton destroyer.

Persful and others of his stripe on Alcatraz constitute the most dangerous and desperate body of men banded together in any one spot on earth.

Persful was 22 when he killed his wife and child in Little Rock, Arkansas. Death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment at a place known as Tucker Farm, where convict trustees were used as guards. Persful became what was known as a "Rider Guard," with a horse and rifle to patrol the outer boundaries of the prison grounds. He shot and killed a convict attempting to escape, and for that killing (strange as it may seem to persons unfamiliar with some of the "unwritten rules" of certain prisons) Persful was given parole.

A bank cashier at Van Buren, Ark. was the next victim. Persful was arrested for that crime, was returned to Tucker Farm as a parole violator. He again armed and made a guard. He shot three negroes who he reported were attempting to escape. Convict witnesses said two of the negroes were standing with raised hands when Persful sent slugs through their bodies.

And again this killer was given his freedom as a reward for killing!

I asked Persful on Alcatraz about the triple slaying. He laughed. Said he killed them all so they "wouldn't talk."

Persful and a partner robbed a bank in Montana. Persful wanted all the loot so he killed his partner. The body was never found but Persful was sent to Alcatraz for bank robbery.

Depression May Be Due To Uncertainties, Former President Tells Engineers

SAN FRANCISCO, (UP)—A suggestion that the real cause of unemployment and economic depression in the United States is uncertainty and fear regarding the future was made in a speech today by Herbert Hoover.

The former President of the United States spoke at a joint session of the conventions of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers on Treasure Island. Today was Hoover-Engineers day at the Golden Gate International Exposition.

"To get our people back to work is the vital humanitarian problem of our day and age," Mr. Hoover said. "There is no measure to the human tragedy of it all. Pending its solution the government must provide against destitution. But support by the government can offer no security or hope for the future." (Continued on Page 4)

You will save a lot of cleaning if you will nail a scrubbing brush upside down outside the back door. The youngsters really will wipe their dusty or muddy shoes on this brush before they come in the house—and it saves mud and dirt from being tracked indoors.

HOOT SLATFIELD, WHAT AILS THIS HERE CRITTER? YOU BEEN A-PLOWIN' HIM TOO PEART LIKE?

NAW HE KICKED AT ME AN' I UP AND SLAPPED TH' DERN JARHEAD AFORE I THOUGHT!

THE SLATFIELDS.

An Easy Summer

The day is past when Mother is supposed to be always tired and to labor "from sun to sun." Modern conveniences, better preserving, transportation and marketing of foods, ready made clothing, bakery products, the laundry, the dry-cleaning plant, the factory—all these reduce the amount of labor which must be done in the home.

If each member of the family will keep his own things in order, Mother's work will be lightened. It is unfair for Mother to have to walk the length of the house to put away the needle and thread which Mary has left on the porch, or to hang up Tom's dripping bathing suit. How much easier life would be if only each would leave his room in order, his bed open to air, clothes hung in place, bathtub clean after his bath and towels and wash cloths spread out to dry!

Often it is these little things, which all of the family leave for her, which keep Mother "up-and-doing" all day long. If this description fits your family, you need a reform immediately and it is up to Mother—tactfully but firmly—to engineer it. Such carelessness is not intentional and the perpetrators of it will never realize it unless it is brought to their attention.

Having enlisted family cooperation, there are many things the housewife may do to make the summer more restful. Pack away unnecessary dust-catchers; use canvas bedspreads instead of dainty ones in rooms exposed to the weather; let outcloths save some laundry; plan simpler menus; serve some meals outdoors; pile up the supper dishes to wash with the breakfast ones; let the children play in plain clothing with few dress-up occasions; fold away many articles unironed; cut out superfluous and fussiness in a dozen ways which you will discover when you look for them.

Fleas

If your pet dog or cat has brought fleas into the house, these may become very annoying. They bite ferociously and spread diseases. The first thing to do is to rid the animal of these pests by washing it in water to which four tablespoons of creolin has been added to each quart of water. Prevent the animal from licking its fur until this has been rinsed off. Place the animal on a newspaper and rub powdered pyrethrum into its hair. The fleas will fall out dead and may be burned with the paper. Burn the animal's bed or powder it well with the pyrethrum. Use the vacuum cleaned on the carpets and burn the sweepings. Wash bare floors, then sprinkle the powder about over rugs and around baseboards.

Frozen Salad

Make a sauce by cooking in the double boiler, two beaten eggs, two tablespoons of vinegar and sugar and six marshmallows. When cooled add two and a half cups of cold diced fruit or vegetables and three-fourths cup of whipped cream. Pour into the refrigerator tray and freeze until firm, without stirring. Cut into squares and serve as a salad; with green garnish and salad dressing.

The Sandwich

A whole meal, except a hot drink or soup, may be served in a sandwich. There is the starchy food provided by the bread; the fat by the butter; vitamins and mineral salts by the vegetables; and proteins may be put into the filling by the use of eggs, meat, cheese, nut butters or baked beans.

The sandwich is hearty and satisfying. If the bread is made from whole-grain flour, it provides needed bulk as well as added vitamins and minerals. Do not fear to put a generous portion of "zoo" and filling between the slices of bread. They lend flavor and relish as well as needed food elements.

The "runny" sandwich may be served on a plate and eaten with a fork. If carried to school or work, it should be wrapped in a stout waxed paper. The open sandwich, with only one slice of bread, gives a larger portion of filling and is acceptable to those who do not wish to eat so much carbohydrate food and who are trying to reduce.

The sandwich allows an equal portion of what you serve to each member of the family; and it saves dishwashing. It is also a means of making unpopular foods acceptable, by disguising them in combinations.

Some secrets of making delicious sandwiches are: having the contents fine and well blended; using plenty of sauces and tangy ingredients to provide snap; spreading the filling thoroughly to the corners and edges of the slices; making the filling moist, that it may not be hard to swallow with the dry bread; wrapping each sandwich separately in waxed paper; serving it fresh and cold, or hot if it is that kind, never wilted and lukewarm.

Attractive appearance counts, as novel arrangement of ingredients or dashes of red pimento or green bango, olives or parsley.

Silk

Silk, the product of the silkworm, is lustrous, soft and the strongest of natural fibres. It was discovered by the Chinese more than four thousand years ago, and the secret was guarded by the royal family of China for more than one thousand years. Since that time fabrics have been constantly loomed, but none were ever finer than those of today which are soft, supple and pliable. Many variations are achieved by changing the construction of the yarn and we have satin, taffeta, georgette crepe, flat, chiffon, crepe-de-chine, and many others.

Formerly only the wealthy could afford garments of silk, and pure silk is still a quality fabric and expensive; but so-called silk hose, underwear and dresses are now a common possession of most women. This has led to imitation silk and to a mixture of other materials with silk. These latter materials are so nearly like real silk that only experts can be certain of recognizing the difference.

Food Ideas

Some vegetables may be cooked together in the same kettle, without intermingling flavors, as potatoes with carrots, peas or string beans, or any combination of these.

Statisticians inform us that more apple pie is consumed than any other pastry.

A nourishing and wholesome salad is made by combining orange segments, cheese balls and walnut meats, with a base of lettuce and a topping of mayonnaise.

Add cloves and chopped parsley to your tomato soup, for a different flavor.

Perk Up

It's nice to look sort of gay and happy, whether you are or not. It makes you more welcome among your friends and has a pleasing reaction on your own mood. There are certain inexpensive ways and means of gladdening your appearance. Pin on your lapel a bright flower; tie one of these colorful peasant kerchiefs over your head, annex a rose nail polish, or a coating of lipstick. Let a gay kandi peek out of your pocket; sew a colored hat band on your hat or stick a gay feather in it. Wear a ribbon on your hair, a bracelet or clips, a colored belt, ankle socks, or some touch of color or frivolity which shouts, "O, be joyful!"

SCOUTING

TROOP 57 NEWS

Well, Summer Camp is over. Tuesday afternoon a truckload of weary, hungry, not exactly spotless-clean, but nevertheless happy Boy Scouts were delivered to their homes by Merle Thomas, who deserves a super-colossal reward for his part in chaperoning them to and from Audrain.

We had our share of excitement, and were proud to say that the local boys ran off with all the honors, taking first and second places in a contest to determine the best tentful of boys at Camp. We have some mighty athletes, too, for we won first, second, and third places in the water sports. Nor was Scoutcraft overlooked, either. We passed about two or three merit badges apiece, several boys advanced a rank, and Bob O'Neil even went up two ranks, which is really hot stuff!

Our straw-boss, Lieutenant Brown of West Point, who conducted inspections and gave marching orders that sounded like a bull-frog clearing his throat, gave a practical demonstration of the treatment a cow man could expect to receive at West Point. Other members of the staff told stories—true and otherwise—which, combined with stunts and songs by the boys, made very enjoyable campfire programs.

Most of the fellows became members of the Tribe of Tahoe, an Honorary society, and several who were already members advanced to a higher rank.

The greater part of our time was spent in passing tests, swimming, and manipulating the canoes and row boat. And, of course, we didn't overlook the greatest sport of all eating. And boy, what food! There was a copious supply of swell food, so the only problem was

"how much can you hold." I don't think there was a boy among us who didn't enjoy every minute of camp, from first call in the morning to taps at nine p. m., and each and every one is looking forward to next year.

Bill Dillinger.

TROOP 86 NEWS

Well, it happened again, last time it was Troop 57 and this time 67. Both of them ran out on us.

We would like to congratulate 57 though for they had all of five men there; but please excuse those poor little three men that represented Troop 67 for "they know not what they do." I recall that 67 sent in the neighborhood of seven Scouts to camp. Surely these seven Scouts weren't seven of the ten players on the ball team. Excuses are in order, at least a better one than: "our fellows were in camp."

Well, I'll tell you what we are going to do: We are going to wait till camp is over so they won't have an excuse then we are going to challenge both of them and beat them so badly. So all you 57 and 67 Scouts better get ready.

Here are the averages of our soft ball league between the local troops.

Team	won	lost
Troop 57	2	1
Troop 86	2	2
Troop 67	1	2

It seems like those 57 Scouts are going around carrying a chip on their shoulders. Well, we will take the lead off in a gentleman-like way and challenge them to a wrestling and boxing match. You name it, fellows. We promise to be there to oblige.—Jerry Davis.

Mrs. Walter Trainor and daughter, Sandra, are here this week from Sacramento visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Rupley.

Are You Teaching Your Children to be Liars?

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

MANY conscientious parents train their children to untruthfulness.

When we suspect that our child has done something wrong, we are likely to ask him about it at once; we want to make sure he is always punished for the wrong he does. We, of course, may convict him in this particular instance and administer "appropriate pain." But our success at this time is almost sure to mean our failure in the future. Besides, the child almost certainly has had training in falsehood and has lost his respect for us.

Dr. Myers

After we have cornered the child once or twice, we become intoxicated by our skill; we find detective ventures fascinating. We may become a bully then. You can't lie to me and get away with it! is a favorite expression of the parent who becomes this kind of bully. "I always know when you are telling me the truth." Self-righteous, silly parents sometimes actually believe themselves when they so boast. "What fools they are!" their children think of them. No one can always catch a child who has learned to lie. The more often he is caught the more often he escapes; and his escapes mount faster than his failures.

Favorite Sport

A favorite indoor sport of parents and teachers is to make the child confess when all the facts are in, to make him "fess up" when they absolutely know that he is "guilty." What causes parents to torment the child so? The same thing that makes a cat torment a slowly-dying mouse. It gives us joy to catch the child, to get him in the corner, to "kick him when he's down"; we like to see him suffer. Our power over him exalts our sense of self-importance. Somewhere in us there the child confesses will clear his soul of sin. But forced confession is of no avail for good; it only makes the child despise the tyrant who applies the force.

No parent can afford to play detective. We cannot be a sneak and a comrade, too. We must choose to be the one or the other. The danger is that unawares we shall be a sneak. We surely shall unless we are on our guard.

Training Them

If we would not train our children to be liars, then, we must not ask them to testify against themselves; and when they volunteer evidence which seems to warrant punishment, we shall not administer it.

On the other hand, we shall not make the mistake of saying, "If you always tell the truth, I shall not punish you." The suggestion is unwholesome. It implies that the child does lie sometimes. It may also prove for him a kind of insurance against pain no matter what he does; for he is free to do all sorts of wrongs if he reports them soon enough.

If you suspect that your child has done something culpable, but do not have objective evidence, don't ask him about the suspected wrong; if you have the evidence, do not ask him. Whether you know or do not know the facts, avoid asking him about them.

Armless Wonder

Pretty Joan Whisnant never let the fact she had no arms bother her, for she educated her toes to do the work of fingers and her legs to do the double duty of both arms and legs. She's shown here—and with a ring on her toe, too—using the telephone as ambidextrously as anyone with more appendage equipment. Joan is 18, was a resident of Tulsa and is now one of the chief attractions in the Ripley Auditorium at the Western World's Fair on Treasure Island.

two "motel" units, the first to be ready late this season; the completion of three additional fish ponds which are now under way; and, in a year or so, the building of a fish hatchery in furtherance of Mr. Baumhoff's earlier announcement of plans for a "trout farm" at the resort.

The present fish pond is an irregular rectangle approximately 130 feet long and 30 feet wide, Mr. Pierson said.

The new resort center building is to be two stories with a full basement, representing of itself an investment of about $30,000. Situated at the junction of the old resort road and the main highway, on the south side of the resort road, the building will be of native stone and rustic with a main highway frontage of 136 feet and a 40-foot depth. This building will house a dining room, store, kitchen, club room, coffee shop and a bar. There will be stone fireplaces in the dining room and club room.

The second floor will consist of hotel rooms with plans for twenty rooms. It is expected to have the building ready for next summer.

Plans for the two new motel units are yet in the formative stage. Mr. Pierson said the location of the buildings has not been selected and

The Letter Box

Dear Friends:

I am availing myself of your kind offer to address the people of El Dorado County through the medium of your paper upon my retiring as their Senator. Obviously it is impossible for me to thank all of my friends individually and so this favor is greatly appreciated.

I want to sincerely thank the people of El Dorado County for their support of me and the kindness and consideration that they have shown me during the four sessions that I have been their Senator. I shall long remember the many friends I have made during my campaigns and shall always cherish a fond and deep regard for El Dorado County and the people thereof. My only regret in retiring as their representative is that I could not have done more in turn for the people.

I shall look forward to visiting with you whenever I can and shall appreciate any invitation to join with you in your activities in the years to come.

Very sincerely yours,
A. L. PIEROVICH.

"Fear" Blamed By Hoover

Production of consumption goods is at about the pre-depression level, he said, with construction and durable goods industries lagging. In addition, he said, a great deficit in homes, plants, equipment and improvements has accumulated.

"Before there can be remedy we must discover the causes of this lag," Mr. Hoover said. "For those causes we must go outside the field of economics and demagogic politics."

"I suggest to you that the real cause lies in the emotional field. Ours is a system of voluntary action on the part of individuals. Voluntary action is dominated by the emotions of confidence in the future or of uncertainty and fear. There are great uncertainties and fears about."

"I believe that if you would investigate, you may find in this field both the real cause and the solution for the 11,000,000 fellow Americans now in distress."

RADIO "WEATHER TIP" GUIDES YACHT TO LEAD FIELD

PASADENA, (UP) — Secret wind forecasts from a scientist at the California Institute of Technology were revealed today as the reason the schooner Pandango has slipped into the lead of the San Francisco to Honolulu yacht race.

In seventh place three days ago at a time when the boats were nearly becalmed, the Pandango dropped out of sight, and then popped up again yesterday 50 miles in the lead. The Pandango's skipper Edwin Pauley, Los Angeles oil man, had steered south 300 miles and found a wind.

Today it was revealed how he did it. It was on a radioed tip from Dr. Irving P. Krick, Caltech's famous long range weather forecaster who does such jobs as predict fog-free locations for the Hollywood movie studios on the side.

To avoid work he chopped off the fingers of his left hand with a meatshop hatchet, then asked a fellow convict to chop off the fingers of his right hand.

The discipline on the Rock is geared to such as Rufe Persful, yet it fails also on some 150 men who will some day be set at liberty.

Treasure Island excursion boat passengers frequently ask me: "What does such discipline do to the men?"

I believe I can answer that question, for I lived with those men for 25 long months, ate with them, suffered with them, and (alien sound on the Rock) laughed with them.

The hearts of those convicts, with very few exceptions, are turned into sinks of bitterness, filling day by day with a hatred that may—later—express itself in acts of violence against society. When the sink overflows, the man becomes "str crazy." There are many such on Alcatraz.

I have no criticism to make of the Federal Prison System. And of Warden Johnston I can say with sincerity, "He is the finest prison official I've ever known."

Yet, I feel entitled to express the opinion that men for whom there is some hope of rehabilitation should be placed in a prison that makes some gesture toward rehabilitation; that men who will some day be allowed to mingle in society be given some constructive preparation for that day.

For the others, the incorrigibles, the "Alcatraz system" is a necessity.

Gardner's third article, discusses the Alcatraz "big shots." Gardner tells of the "hole" where he spent five days for fighting with Al Capone, and offers a sketch of Harvey Bailey, "who would have been great if he hadn't been crooked."

CYCLISTS SAFETY COURT

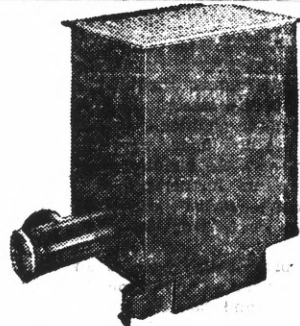

CLEVELAND, O., (UP)—Two hundred members of the Windermere Bicycle Club found Joe Doakes, an imaginary motorist, not guilty of careless driving at a mock trial. Object of the trial was to impress the cyclists with the need for caution.

Mr. and Mrs. Menio Ferrari were in town Wednesday from their mill on Camp Creek and Menio continued to San Francisco on business.

TWICE, during June, the good-looking new Studebaker Champion set A.A.A. records. First, for economy—a stock Champion traveled coast-to-coast and back for a 27 1/4 miles per gallon average. And then for endurance—on the Indianapolis Speedway that same Champion and a team mate went 15,000 continuous miles each in less than 15,000 consecutive minutes. Get this car that's a Champion in fact and in name. Its low price includes many advancements. Low down payment—easy C.I.T. terms.
